One of the most interesting features of a deeply interesting occasion was the presentation, a few minutes before the reception hour, of an elegant and very massive silver loving cup to Mr. and Mrs. Lee, from their children. The presentation was made on behalf of the donors, by the Rev. W. J. Young, of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, the paster of the family, who in a few well chosen centences gave expression to the love, tenderness and happy congratulations which the cup symbolized.

For the rest of the evening the cup stood on a pedestal that rested upon a table covered with lace and draped with crimson roses. Brilliant lights from red on roses. Brilliant lights from red tapers in silver candelebra and red shaded lamps cast a glowing radiance over the seene. The parlors were thronged during reception hours with those who called to offer congratuations and good wishes, few people in Richmond having a more extended circle of friends than the bride and groom of yesterday, who have been associated with all that is beet in Richmond social and business life for three score years.

The loving cup bore three inscriptions one showed the names of the eight givers and the occasion of giving; another the initials L. M., with the dates 1841-1904; the third, two scriptural quotations: "Blessed is the man that walketh uprightly," and "Her children rise up and call her blessed." tapers in sliver candelebra and red sha

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fall to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Professor Charles Eliot Norton.

L'ALLEGRO.

By JOHN MILTON.

This is an extract from a long poem. The title means "Joyous." "Cerberus" is the name of the three-headed dog that kepb watch at the entraines to the world of departed spirits. "Styrian" means "pertaining to the Styx." a river in the world of departed spirits. "Clumerian" means "relating to Cimmeria." a place in Italy where, according to the ancients, the inhabitants subsisted on plunder, and consequently hid themselves by day in dark caves. Euphrosyne was one of the three graces. Venus was the goddess of love, Bacchus god of wine, Zephyr, one of the winds, who married Flora, the goddess of flowers. Hebe was eup-beare to the godd, but was dismissed by Jupiter, because she fell down once while pouring out nectar. Other selections from Milton, his portrait, autograph and blographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

ENCE, loath-ed Melancholy,

Of Cerberus and blackest Midnight born, In Stygian cave forlorn,

Mongst horrid shapes, and shricks, and sights unholy1

Find out some uncouth cell, Where brooding Darkness spreads his jealous wings,

And the night raven sings; There under ebon shades and low-browed rocks,

As ragged as thy locks, In dark Cimmerian desert ever dwell. But come, thou goddess fair and free, In heaven ycleped Euphrosyne,

And, by men, heart-easing Mirth Whom lovely Venus, at a birth, With two sister Graces more, To ivy-crowd-ed Bacchus bore;

Or whether (as some sages sing) The frolic wind that breathes the spring, Zephyr, with Aurora playing-

As he met her once a-Maying-There, on beds of violets blue And fresh blown roses washed in dew, Filled her with thee, a daughter fair,

So buxom, blithe and debonair. Haste thee, nymph, and bring with thee Jest, and youthful Jollity-Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,

Nods and becks and wreath-ed smiles, Such as hang on Hebe's cheek, And love to live in dimple sleek-Sport, that wrinkled Care derides,

And Laughter, holding both his sides. Come! and trip it, as you go, On the light fantastic toe;

And in thy right hand lead with thee The mountain nymph, sweet Liberty; And if I give thee honor due, Mirth, admit me of thy crew, To live with her, and live with thee, In unreprov-ed pleasures free.

There were a good many informal political formers of more or less significant There were a good many informal political conferences of more or less significance in the city toward the end of hat week, during the stay of Senator Martin in the city, and developments are beginning to leak out by degrees.

One of the most significant of these is the disappointment which came to Senator W. P. Barksdale, of Halifax, as a result of his efforts to secure the supert of prominent Democrats who were here last week for the office of Lieutenant-Covernor.

here last week for the office of Lieutenant-Governor.

To the serious surprise and chagrin of Mr. Barksdule, he met with Caton pledges on every hand, and when he left here for his home Sunday he was quite down-hearted concerning his fight.

Mr. Barksdale said he thought he was due the support of prominent men in his faction because he had always stood by them in the Senate and elsewhere when they needed friends. He was not at all pleased with what he termed a "clein throw down," and did not healtate to speak of it in the most emphatic manner. This incident, coupled with the talk that is heard among the politicians, clearly indicates that for the most part the Martin-Swanson wing of the party are rapidly centering upon Colonel Caton as their candidate for the second place on the ticket next year.

Miss Hofer was considered the richest, most beautiful girl in her country, her fortune being estimated at $5,00,000. It was said at the time of the marriage that this whole sum was to be turned over to the Zion treasury.

Just before the marriage it was announced in a cable dispatch from Geneva to The World that the young woman's splendid chateau on the shores of Lake Constance was in the market, and that her large property holdings in the town of Constance and its envirous was to be sold in the shortest possible time.

Dowle made his capture of Miss Hofer while touring the continent, and the story went out as he was bringling her to Zion City that he intended her as a bride for his "unklissed" son, Gladstone. He declared that no marriage was planned; that the girl had been sent by her mother to study at Zion.
